even beyond to the very grateful design to their own life actively, and then to work, to change the objection traditionally and the society under the male gender. The woman has to assert herself, should change society framework conditions, on account of unfold; stand up for the targets, morale and values, which appear very important for her own self-respect and for gaining the respect from the other gender. Abortion of female abuses, harassment, child marriage and dowry system could be the topics that need to be called here first and foremost instantly.

Assumption

A humanist vision of an efficient society is based on equality and recognition of both sexes who do not interfere themselves in their self-respect and self-realization, but support themselves and develop as individuals also in the family unit. A woman will not approach close to that vision only with tight laws against violence. They are only an important step to unite the sexes. The turning point in India could only be achieved through an active participation of women in national movements in which education must introduce. Education and freedom, as well as its acceptance by the male side would arrange a new self-confidence, self-respect, a newly defined image and a role of women, who no longer let her be subordinated but operates on an equal height with every man in society. But as long as the introduction of a nationwide new educational system does not arise, or at least, landmark education reform, which would lead to the regular participation and development of girls in class across the country, the great majority of women in India will mostly remain suppressed in their traditional role as submissive creatures without a voice in the society.

Every man and woman is still trying to find out their place in a society which balances along spiritual tradition and market-based modernity. The hope of everyone remains that India would reflect and even use its old values on the way to modernity. The woman is and will remain a source of strength and love. She will always remain the star of the values Dharma (fairness) and Kama (love, care).

ABSTRACT

India is a developing economy where the small savings contribute immensely in establishing the small and enterprises. In the light of demise of rural artisanship, entrepreneurship has been given much importance as empowerment. Gone are the days when women were considered no match for all powerful male dominated sector. The new generation women across the world have overcome all negative notions and have placed themselves beyond doubt in all spheres of life including the most intricate and cumbersome world of entrepreneurship. Women entrepreneurship is inherent and also a natural process. Entrepreneurship is considered one of the most important factors contributing to the economic development of the society. There are evidences to believe that countries which have proportionately higher percentage of entrepreneurs in their popu-
