Academic issues faced by mentees

Students face certain issues which are interlinked with their socio-economic background. As told by the mentees, many of them suffer academic stress due to less encouragement by their family members to attend college and some of them even forced to an early marriage which results in low attendance. The college encounters this issue by organising counselling sessions for the parents and telling them how education can be a powerful tool to increase confidence and make their daughters independent.

Sometimes mentees complain of lack of certain books and study material etc. These issues have been overcome by arranging tutorial and remedial classes. They are provided with books and required learning materials and guided to use e-resources.

Some students feel overburdened and suffer academic stress during class tests and exams. One of the keys of dealing with these issues is to inculcate good study habits and time management skills among students.

Stress related issues faced by mentees

College is often the first time in student life, when they are given much of freedom which if not practised properly can lead to severe stress.

The students start prioritising their self-image — socially, physically and academically. There is stress related to their physical appearance, weight gain etc. At times, family expectations and demands also pave way to a stressful mind. I guide my mentees to follow a well planned daily routine and avoid procrastination, this results in major stress relief.

Some students struggle with family issue time to time. I advise them to feel free to discuss those issues with me.
